Art Unit: 1722

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claims 1,2,4-9,11,13,15,17 and 19 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Shida et al. (Pub. No.: US 2001/0026817).

Shida et al. disclose an injection mold for producing three-dimensional components characterized by a system for mold tempering having at least one cooling groove located in a second module 111 where each groove is covered by a first module 102. The coolant grooves vary in width and depth. The second module, forming part of a mold cavity, is fed by a hot runner 1.

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 3,10,12,14,16,18 and 20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Shida et al. as applied to claims 1,2,4-9,11,13,15,17 and 19 above, and further in view of Takahashi.

Art Unit: 1722

While Shida et al. does not teach seals arranged between the two modules, Takahashi teaches seals 18-21 positioned between modules 1,9,10,17 in order to prevent leakage of cooling water from the cooling grooves. See Fig. 4.

It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to provide seals between the modules of Shida et al. in order to prevent leakage of cooling water from the cooling grooves as suggested by Takahashi.

Applicant's arguments filed July 10, 2003 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. Applicant argues the Shida et al. and Takahashi et al. references do not disclose an arbitrarily extending groove but one that is precisely sized and spaced. While the references disclose a groove the is precisely sized and spaced, such a groove is still one of preference, i.e. arbitrary. It would also be convenient to use the grooves of said references since they have done the work for applicant.

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
